

The it.com Reserved Names Policy

Reserved Names Policy

Some names are reserved for business, technical, and political purposes including the following.

- 1. International Olympic Committee
- 2. Red Cross & Red Crescent: Specific Designations protected under the 1949 Geneva Conventions and their Additional Protocols
- 3. Red Cross & Red Crescent: Acronyms
- 4. Red Cross & Red Crescent: The International Red Cross & Red Crescent Movement and its components
- 5. Intergovernmental Organizations (IGO Identifier List)
- 6. Intergovernmental Organizations (IGO Acronyms List)
- 7. Internet Assigned Numbers Authority

We reserve the right to add or remove these names or change the prices with notice to our registrars.

Other it.com Naming Rules

Domains may be registered in terms from 1 to 10 years

Domains can:

- be registered in strings with a minimum of 1 and a maximum of 63 characters.
- begin or end with a letter or a number.
- use all English characters (a through z), numbers (0 through 9), and dashes (-).
- be registered by private parties, businesses, and organizations for any legal reason.

Domains cannot:

- begin or end with a dash.
- include spaces.

DNSSEC - is coming - date TBA.